Dear colleagues and friends,

Allow me to warmly thank the organizing committee of the Conference for giving me the privilege of welcoming and addressing you all. For me, it is an honour and a pleasure.

I would also like to thank them for having brought us together in the wonderful city of Hamburg, to discuss one of the many current challenges worldwide which are, without doubt, Migration and Climate change.

Human Migration is, indeed, one of the most ancient phenomena known from the beginning of civilization. However, it has taken unprecedented prominence today due to a progressive increase of world population- environment degradation due to climate change – conflicts and instability that makes it necessary to improve our ability to find solutions to this recurring decimal.

These 3 days will be dedicated to cover a wide spectrum of themes related to “Media and Migration The agenda includes 10 sessions split into four main areas addressing some of the most pressing issues of today., which tackles important topics on Countering Disinformation Through Media Literacy, racism and xenophobia.

The conference act as a tool to strengthening alliances for the rights of migrants and refugees, on solidarity in society beyond hate and on media presentations beyond stereotyping...

I am sure that each one of you will identify subjects of his/her interest and will benefit from many fruitful and enriching discussions.

I am particularly happy to be present in this unique event today and to exchange views and share experiences with other experts, colleagues and friends, representing many well-known Institutions and projects together with members of relevant international organizations.

I congratulate you for your commitment and active participation and wish you all the success.

Thank you for your attention.

Larry Macaulay
